About our Topics: (approved for 2 HRCI & SHRM credits)

Attorney Steve Britt will be presenting a review of cybersecurity and how to implement best practices. His discussion will address how cybersecurity issues present a direct impact on operations, the types of risks involved and an overview of the rules and regulations companies must be aware of to effectively address a breach, and contain liability. The discussion will include unique concerns and issues government contractors face, and how to avoid problems in protecting data security and handling sensitive information. Mr. Britt will also talk about current developments and future challenges to anticipate as companies grow their businesses.

Attorney Seth Berenzweig will pick up the theme of important workplace issues and best HR practices. He will discuss various strategies for handling employment law issues including discrimination, harassment and retaliation. He will also address how to handle workplace disruption and violence issues. Mr. Berenzweig will explain recent changes to employment and labor laws, including an emphasis on practical tips for addressing issues that government contractors often face in managing their workforce. He will also discuss common mistakes to avoid in hiring employees and independent contractors, and how to protect trade secrets.

About our Speakers: Steve Britt & Seth Berenzweig

Steve Britt is a partner at Berenzweig Leonard LLP and director of its Data Security & Privacy Practice. Steve has been practicing technology law for over 25 years and represents a wide range of hardware and software clients involved in managed services, software licensing, SaaS, IaaS, Cloud, e-commerce and software development. His government contractor clients are usually national security and intelligence related.

Steve counsels clients on the full range of data protection issues relating to HIPAA, FTC, COPPA, PCI, DoD, DHS, EU and state data breach laws. He is a Star Mentor at MACH-37, Virginia's cybersecurity incubator. Prior to private law practice, Steve spent 9 years in senior regulatory appointments in four different Federal agencies.

Seth Berenzweig is a founding and managing partner of Berenzweig Leonard. Seth has extensive corporate, business and litigation experience, and regularly handles employment cases, government contracts, compliance and white collar matters for businesses and executives in the Washington, D.C. region and nationally. He has been quoted in the Washington and national media as an authoritative source, has been recognized in honorary lists of 'Legal Elite' and 'SuperLawyer' in the Washington, D.C. region, and was previously selected as one of the Washington area's 'Top Lawyers' by Washingtonian Magazine. Seth has achieved the highest 'AV' rating in Martindale Hubbell directory for legal ability and ethics.

Seth frequently appears in the national and international media to discuss business, corporate, and compliance matters. He is frequently called to television studios to discuss breaking news and legal cases impacting businesses. Breaking news he has covered on the air includes historic settlements companies reach with the U.S. Justice Department, the Walmart class action case, and cases involving professional athletes and celebrities. Seth also lectures nationally on various legal issues impacting companies, executives and HR professionals. He is one of only a few attorneys in the United States to obtain a full offer of judgment from a major federal agency in employment litigation, and assists companies and management in implementing legal strategies aimed at containing costs and increasing revenue.
